

Center for Business and Policy Research (CBPR) Sponsorship Opportunities

Businesses, individuals, and government agencies can become a sponsor of CBPR to support its continued work and engagement in economic development and policy analysis with a focus on the Northern California megaregion.

All sponsorships are for a calendar year (or 12 month period) and include the option to be recognized on CBPR's website and the business forecast publication, and email notification when CBPR releases a new forecast. Additional benefits include presentations or access to CBPR senior staff for a limited amount of consulting time as specified in the schedule below.

Sponsorship Levels

Benefits

$1,500	One 30 minute general economic outlook presentation
$2,500 Option A	One presentation, up to 60 minutes
Option B	Up to 15 hours consulting time
$5,000 Option A	One presentation up to 60 minutes and up to 15 hours consulting time
Option B	Up to 30 hours consulting time with Center staff
$7,500 Option A	One presentation up to 60 minutes and up to 30 hours consulting time
Option B	Two presentations up to 60 minutes each and up to 15 hours consulting time
$10,000+	Contact CBPR

For more information regarding the Center and sponsorships, visit Pacific.edu/CBPR or contact Jeffrey Michael, Executive Director, Center for Business and Policy Research at jmichael@pacific.edu or 209.946.7385.

- Presentations are general economic outlooks and discussions of current economic and policy areas within CBPR's expertise. Travel more than 50 miles from Sacramento or Stockton may incur additional cost.
- Consulting time includes assistance with data, forecasts and presentations, review of reports, as well as informal discussion and advising about economic conditions or policy. More extensive research projects with formal deliverables and firm deadlines are not part of a sponsorship and require a separate contract and scope of work. Please contact CBPR with any questions.

